

Organiser

Indoor Air Quality
Information Centre
室內空氣質素資訊中心

Operator

Seminar on IAQ Management and New IAQ Objectives

Free
Seminar

27 March 2020,
16:00-17:30

Theater 1, 1/F,
HKPC Building

Cantonese, with English
presentation materials

For people who are interested in IAQ Scheme

Good Indoor Air Quality (IAQ) is important to safeguarding the health of the building occupants and contributes to their comfort. Promoting good IAQ can bolster corporate image which attracting hotel tenants and guests. To encourage property owners/management to adopt good IAQ practices, the IAQ Certification Scheme for Offices and Public Places has been implemented since 2003 and New IAQ Objectives was updated on 2019. Some hotel premises have already joined the Scheme.

Information

This seminar is organised by the IAQ Information Centre, established by the Environmental Protection Department, with a view to enhancing the awareness on IAQ, and providing simple and practical guidance on IAQ management. It will introduce the IAQ Certification Scheme and the new IAQ objectives, share the experience on how to maintain good IAQ and essential elements in corporate policy for good IAQ management.

The attendee may also choose to attend the seminar via web broadcast. The Centre will send out details to access.

Seminar on IAQ Management and New IAQ Objectives

Rundown

Date	Activities	Location
16:00 – 16:40	Guest Speaker: Dr. Edward MUI Title: Introduction of IAQ Certification Scheme and new IAQ objectives	Venue HKPC
16:40 – 17:30	Guest Speaker: Dr. Ka Wing SHEK Title: Key points for a smooth transition to the new IAQ certification	Venue HKPC

Speaker

Dr. Edward MUI

IAQ Information Centre

Dr. Ka Wing SHEK

CMA Testing & Certification Laboratories

Enrolment Method

1. Scan the QR code to complete the online enrolment. OR
2. Email or Fax the enrolment form to enquiry@iaq.gov.hk

