For property
management professionals and those who are interested in IAQ

Good Indoor Air Quality (IAQ) is important to safeguarding the health of the building occupants and contributes to their comfort. Promoting and enhancing good IAQ can bolster corporate image, increase workforce productivity and confidence in their work environment.

To encourage property owners/management to adopt good IAQ practices, the IAQ Certification Scheme for Offices and Public Places has been implemented since 2003 and New IAQ Objectives of the Scheme was updated on 2019 to further enhance the indoor environment in IAQ certified premises under the Scheme.

Information

This webinar is organised by the IAQ Information Centre, established by the Environmental Protection Department, with a view to enhancing the awareness on IAQ and providing simple and practical guidance on IAQ management. It will introduce the IAQ Certification Scheme, and the new IAQ objectives, and share practical experiences on how to maintain good IAQ and essential elements in corporate policy for good IAQ management. A Certificate of Attendance will be awarded to each attendee.
