Indoor Air Quality Certificate Award Cer

▲ Mrs. Alice Cheung, JP, Deputy Director of Environmental Protection

Wide support from the community to strive for better Indoor air quality

The Environmental Protection Department's Indoor Air Quality (IAQ) Certification Scheme recognizes outstanding IAQ management practices, and raises public awareness on the importance of a healthy indoor environment.

In recognizing and encouraging excellent IAQ management practices, the Environmental Protection Department (EPD) has implemented the IAQ Certification Scheme for Offices and Public Places (the scheme) since 2003, with the aim of raising awareness in the community of good IAQ.

Over the years, the number of premises participating in the scheme has continued to rise. By end of 2017, there was 1,562 certificates issued, an 18-fold increase as compared with some 80 certificates in 2004. This shows that the scheme has successfully brought the issue of IAQ to the attention of the general public.

This year's IAQ Certification Award Ceremony cum Technical Seminar was held on June 13, to commend organizations which have made efforts in achieving good IAQ. Mrs. Alice Cheung, JP, Deputy Director of Environmental Protection, commended the awarded premises owners and property management companies for their commitment and efforts in maintaining a healthy indoor environment, and setting positive examples for others to follow.

"To further enhance the scheme, the EPD has reviewed the existing IAQ objectives and proposed to update the objectives with reference to the IAQ guidelines published by the World Health Organization (WHO), including the addition of 'mould' as one of the parameters to be assessed, and revising the objectives of some of the parameters," said Mrs Cheung. We intend to launch the new IAQ objectives on 1 July 2019, and in the meantime, allow a maximum transitional period of 5 years for our participating premises. We believe the new objectives would provide a healthier and more comfortable environment for users of the premises.

In the ceremony, EPD presented special awards to the top 10 organizations with the highest participation rates, and to those organizations whose premises have joined the scheme for 10 years. There are 94 additional premises reaching their 10th year of participation, which doubles the number of awardees for this award in last year.

In the technical seminar following the ceremony, professional from the Hong Kong Productivity Council briefing the attendees on reducing exposure to volatile organic compounds in commercial premises, as well as professional and management representatives of shopping mall and private estate clubhouse sharing tips for achieving good IAQ

A holistic approach to achieve excellent air quality

Manager of Technical Services & Sustainable Development, Swire Properties Limited

In striving to uphold sustainable development goals, Swire Properties (Swire) is committed to maintaining good IAQ in its premises, especially in shopping malls. This year, the company has once again been awarded "Excellent Class" under the EPD's IAO Certification Scheme.

Swire points out that keeping good IAQ can only succeed with close collaboration between management and tenants. Hence, the company has taken a proactive approach to encourage its tenants as well as partners to partake in various environmental protection programs, while it explores a variety of innovative technologies to achieve better results.

For instance, Swire supports mall tenants to participate in the Hong Kong Green Shop Alliance, an initiative co-organized by the Hong Kong Green Building Council Limited and EPD. It has also prepared a fit-out and renovation guide, urging tenants to apply environmentally friendly renovation materials. For its F&B tenants, it assists in offering detailed technological guidelines in designing more sustainable kitchens, with advanced air ventilation systems.

In addition, Swire has in place a monitoring system on the maintenance of air-conditioning and handling systems, to ensure they are equipped with both high-efficiency and activated carbon filters. The company strongly believes in the importance of regular cleaning together with replacement of filters and cooling coils to meet its high standards.

Setting a fine example with good design and judicious management

Mr. Frankie Chan, Deputy General Manager, Well Born Real Estate Management

The Beverly Hills, one of the finest apartments in Hong Kong, has achieved ten consecutive years of "Excellent Class" IAQ in the scheme. Under the management of Well Born Real Estate Management Limited (Well Born), the building enjoys the combined benefits of effective good air ventilation design, strict monitoring on indoor air pollutants, and an effective air-conditioning system.

Well Born has implemented a series of measures to maintain good IAQ, especially in the clubhouse, by adding filters at air outlets, conducting regular checks and maintenance on the air-conditioning system, cleaning filters once a month, together with disinfecting the fan coil units at least once a year. Importantly, The Beverly Hills enjoys an extra advantage of locating at the favorable Sam Mun Tsai, a tranquil area that admits natural breezes into its clubhouse.

Furthermore, Well Born also requires contactors to employ VOC-free materials in renovations, so as to help reduce air pollution.

Keeping a proper relative humidity level is crucial in preventing bacteria growth. Hence, for dehumidification, the clubhouse air-conditioning system remains operational for an extra 30 minutes daily, after opening hours. In particular, air purifiers are utilized to reduce the concentration of carbon dioxide in the clubhouse.

The company reckons it is imperative to sustain good IAQ, as fresh air makes a positive impact on the lives of our residents and employees," says Mr. Frankie Chan, Deputy General Manager of Well Born. "It is an integral part of our commitment to our corporate social responsibility to raise general awareness on this issue.

Tips for Better IAQ

Reduce VOC in indoor environment

What is Volatile Organic Compounds?

660000000000

Volatile organic compounds (VOC) are a diverse group of organic compounds that evaporate at room temperature. VOC could be emitted from new furniture, cosmetics, cleaning agents, pesticides and other products. Exposure to VOC can cause eye, nose and throat irritations, headaches, and dizziness, and may result in both acute and chronic health effects. Some VOC that are commonly found in indoor environment are known human carcinogen. Hence, it is always prudent to minimize the exposure to VOC in the premises.

6660660666 Tips to reduce VOC

- · Maintain good ventilation in the premises at all times together with independent exhaust for potential VOC emission sources.
- · Schedule renovation works, pest control activities, etc. during unoccupied times.
- Select low-VOC building materials and products e.g. paints, coatings and adhesives, and only buy the quantity
- · Avoid using VOC-containing products in areas where there is lack of ventilation.
- · Read and follow closely manufacturers' instructions in handling and keeping paints, adhesives, cleaning agents and other VOC-containing products.
- · Do not replace furniture unless absolutely necessary.
- · Select furniture made of solid wood or low-formaldehyde wood panels meeting European E1 standard, China GB18580-2017, the Japan F-Three Star, or similar
- · Avoid bare pressed-wood products and select those that are covered by laminate or water-repellent finish on the surfaces and edges to help reduce the emission of formaldehyde.
- · Before a new premises is occupied or after renovation works is completed, increase the ventilation of the premises to flush-out off-gassing of VOC.
- · Arrange scheduled cleaning and maintenance for the mechanical ventilation and air conditioning system, including changing filters regularly.
