NEW MILESTONE IN ENHANCING INDOOR AIR QUALITY

The Environmental Protection Department (EPD) introduced new indoor air quality (IAQ) Objectives on 1 July 2019 which are conducive to enhancing IAQ levels in Hong Kong. The new IAQ Objectives add mould as a new parameter for evaluating IAQ, include short-term objectives for formaldehyde and nitrogen dioxide, and tighten the concentration levels of carbon monoxide, respirable suspended particulates and radon.

To promote healthy indoor environments, and to raise public awareness on the importance of IAQ, EPD has launched a voluntary "IAQ Certification Scheme for Offices and Public Places" (the Scheme) since 2003. A two-level certification (Excellent Class and Good Class) is adopted under the Scheme as the benchmark for assessing the IAQ of premises. IAQ certificates will be issued to premises that have passed the IAQ assessment. About 1,700 premises were issued IAQ certificates as at September 2020, over 20-fold increase as compared to the 80 certificates issued in 2004, indicating that the Scheme has been well received by various sectors.

New premises joining the Scheme or existing premises that have completed their five-year certification cycle on or after 1 July 2019 are required to meet the new IAQ Objectives. Since the introduction of the new IAQ Objectives, more than 500 premises have completed the certification with the new IAQ Objectives, affirming that the IAQ of premises is being progressively enhanced.

EPD continues to commend organisations that have made efforts towards achieving good IAQ this year. Awards are given to all premises certified with "Excellent Class" and those whole buildings certified with "Good Class". There are also two special awards given to the top 10 organisations with the highest participation rate and to those organisations whose premises have been certified under the Scheme for 10 years.

paid great attention to the IAQ. The buildings." university has participated in the Scheme since 2006 and has attained the IAQ certification for a total of seven buildings to date, of which the Cheng Yu Tung Building has obtained the "Excellent Class" certification.

Alex Cheung, Director of the Campus Management Office of HKUST said, "HKUST has paid close attention to the environmental lifecycle of its buildings, and attached great importance to environmental protection in the planning, design, construction and maintenance management of our campus facilities.

In addition to giving due consideration to the design requirements

Environmental Management System, which made it easier to establish

The Hong Kong University of Science of air-conditioning and ventilation systems, we have also used and Technology (HKUST) has always low volatile organic compound construction materials in campus

> HKUST benefits from cleaner ambient air through its location in the suburbs of Sai Kung, but indoor air quality cannot be ignored. "HKUST has been monitoring the operation of its air-conditioning and ventilation systems comprehensively through the building management, detection and diagnosis system," Mr. Cheung said. The university has also set up a real-time monitoring system through the installation of indoor air sensors to enable staff and students to check real-time indoor air quality levels in buildings.

> HKUST has made good use of technology, coupled with effective IAQ management, to ensure that indoor air quality continues to maintain a high-quality level, providing a healthy and comfortable campus environment for students and staff.

50-year-old historic hotel providing good indoor air quality

With a history stretching back half a century, the Mira Hong Kong joined the Scheme in 2019 and has attained the "Good Class" certification under the new IAQ Objectives, providing the hotel with high-quality indoor air quality and also setting a good example as a socially responsible commercial enterprise.

For a hotel with such a long history that needs to enhance its IAQ, the full support of management together with the collaboration of every department was required. The Mira Hong Kong has already implemented an ISO 14001 a set of management practices incorporating with IAQ measures. Before conducting an audit inspection, the hotel had to inspect the indoor conditions first, including adjusting the air conditioning and ventilation systems, switching to using low volatile organic compound products and water-based paints, and strengthening the regular maintenance of the air-conditioning systems.

Due to the addition of the new parameter of mould under the new IAQ Objectives, the hotel stepped up regular checks of its indoor facilities to prevent the growth of mould caused by water leakages, and also repaired those walls and floors already damaged by mould.

The hotel successfully met the "Good Class" requirements under the new IAQ Objectives so that guests and employees have confidence in the hotel's indoor air quality. It also enables the Mira Hong Kong to move towards a higher quality hotel and enhance its competitiveness.

the requirements of the new IAQ Objectives.

Keeping up with the times and transition to new IAQ Objectives

The Hong Kong Jockey Club Telebet Centre cum Volunteers and Training Centre, located in Tin Shui Wai, has always adhered to management standards for maintaining good indoor air quality, and has obtained the "Good Class" certification to safeguard the health of more than 800 employees. Following the implementation of the new IAQ Objectives, the centre further enhanced its workspace indoor air quality in accordance with

The centre has continuously monitored indoor air pollutant levels through the building's intelligent management system, and enhanced the filtration efficiency of its air-conditioning and ventilation systems to meet the respirable suspended particulate concentration requirements under the new IAQ Objectives. With regard to the new parameter of mould, the centre made appropriate adjustments to indoor humidity levels and strengthened the management of potential leakages, such as installing water leak detectors for preventing mould growth.

The centre has always focused on maintaining good indoor air quality. As long as the management of air quality is strengthened on the basis of existing IAQ measures, the centre can transit to the requirements of the new IAQ Objectives.
